Tolpuddle Martyrs 190th Anniversary

EXTRA! EXTRA!

The Crime?

Six farm labourers joined a Trade Union for fairer workers rights.

The Punishment:

They are sent to the penal colonies in Australia.

Caledonian Park

is the site where 100,000 people gathered on 21 April 1834, and marched to Parliament to protest the deportation of the six men.

sented copy e. a., that he did not disapprove of the language of it, and that if that petition should be presented on another day, and in a becoming manner he would receive it and lay it before the King.

The Deputation then retir.d, taking the petition with them, without saving any thing further. On descending to the Hall they determined to remain with the petition in the Home Office t.il the whole of the multitude by whom they had been accompanied had dispersed. This resolution was founded on a just sense of the danger which might arise from exciting a feeling of increa

Att Phillip Deput that h Lord

Mr.

that if that petition should be presented on another day, and in a becoming manner he would receive it and lay it before the King.

The Deputation then retir d, taking the petition with them, without saving any thing rutther. On descending to the Holl they determined to remain with the petition in the Home Office tall the whole of the multitude by whom they had been accompanied had dispersed. This resolution was founded on a just sense of the danger which might arise from exciting a feeling of

JOIN US!

on 30 minute walking tour of Caledonian Park to learn more about the Tolpuddle Martyrs and the trade unions.

Sunday 21 April

12pm lpm 2pm

Meet at the Clock Tower Caledonian Park

N79HF

The of Charing Homand, an bourne. Mr. Phillips informed them that Lord Melbourne see them.

illips then asked if they were a Departation from the eld that morning in Copenhagen Fields, and if they expetition from the body assembled there, accompanied saion, through the streets. The Deputation answered in tive.

lips said Viscount Melbourne was in the Office, and had actions to say that he could not receive a petition preder such circumstances; that his Lordship had seen a that if that petition should be presented on another day, and in a becoming manner he would receive it and lay it before the King.

The Deputation then retired, taking the petition with them, without saving any thing rurther. On descending to the Hall they determined to remain with the petition in the Home Office till the whole of the multitude by whom they had been accompanied had dispersed. This resolution was founded on a just cease of the danger which might arise from exciting a feeling of the Office, a of spied by, a

office ord Mel

The Depu on then retired, and lay it before the R without saving any thing further? On descending to the they determined to remain with the petition in the Home tall the whole of the multitude by whom they had been a panied had dispersed. This resolution was founded on tense of the danger which might arise from exciting a fee

