How we help: Vivien's Story

Vivien first came to use Age UK Norfolk's Befriending Service after the death of her first husband, whom she was very fond of. His death triggered memories of times gone by and Vivien felt she needed somebody to talk to.

Towards the end of the COVID-19 lockdown period, Vivien experienced mobility issues and was unable to get out and about, leaving her feeling isolated. The situation escalated to the point when Vivien's Telephone Befriending Volunteer, Marie, found that Vivien was in tears when she called her.

"Everything she felt during our phone call she shared with me. I contacted the Befriending team and was given advice on Vivien's next steps, together with the Information and Advice Help Line number," says Marie.

Vivien was contacted by our Information and Advice team within a couple of days and by the following week she had been given medication by her doctor and received a phone call regarding a list of local care support. Vivien chose the nearest care available to her and as a result received weekly cleaning support.

Marie says, "Vivien feels so much better now. Her words were 'You've been my lifeline'. She asks me to pass on her grateful thanks to the Age UK Norfolk Information and Advice team."

Leaving a gift

If you choose to leave a gift in your will, there are three main types of gift that you can make:

- Residuary – a share in, or all of, what's left of the value of your estate after family and friends have been taken care of
- Pecuniary – a specific sum of money
- Specific – an item such as jewellery or a piece of art.

To help assist your solicitor when drawing up or amending your will, we have created some suggested legal wording to include your gift to help our vital work.

Wording for a residuary gift

I further direct that the receipt of the Chief Executive or other proper officer of the said charity for the time being shall be a full and sufficient discharge for the said gift.
