Patients' Representative Service

What is the Patients' Representative Service?

The Patients' Representative Service offers support, advocacy, representation and information to older patients and their carers whilst on the Health Care of Older People (HCOP) wards at Queen's Medical Centre and Nottingham City Hospital.

We can help if

You need extra support during your hospital stay or you are a carer who needs to speak to someone independent. If so, please contact your Patients' Representative.

At times, we all need support and representation, someone to be our voice. We all need someone who will listen.

What the service provides

- You are worried about an aspect of your hospital stay
- You want someone independent to speak on your behalf
- You need support during a time of crisis
- Someone to discuss a difficult decision with
- If you need general information or possible access to other services
- If you are worried or concerned, talk to us we are here to help

What extra support do we offer?

- Information on financial matters and benefits
- Information on health and social care
- Details on services available in the community once discharged, such as befriending services, social groups and other support services
- Assistance in referring and signposting to any appropriate services

“Thank you. I’m very grateful for your service which has helped me to tie together some links of information. I feel far more able to speak openly to the ward about things that worry me”
