

'Viva La Nan' Memory Wall

My favourite memory of my Nan is...

All of the fun spent at her house with my cousins, whilst she gave us lasagna defrosted in the utterly buttery tubs. We'd hide behind the orange sofa xx

My favourite memory of my Nan is...

Watching Top of the Pops with her as she always came over on Thursdays. And I really remember her saying "look at that pervert, you wouldn't let him anywhere near your kids" So Jimmy Saville and a shame we don't always listen to old people

McKee.

My favourite memory of my Nan is...

Her always having chocolate swirl biscuits that we always shared and playing games

McKee.

My favourite memory of my Nan is...

That she taught me how to bake and every Christmas time we would bake cookies together

McKee.

My favourite memory of my Nan is...

Always offering her grandchildren chocolate buttons

McKee.

My nan taught me...

That even if you can't speak the same language as each other, you can still feel and share the love you have for each other.

McKee.

My nan taught me...

How to bake bread, drink, laugh, mow grass, shout and love. Love you Nan xxx

McKee.

My nan taught me...

To always have a bottle of Vimto in the cupboard

McKee.

My nan taught me...

To live one day at a time. She was very a very strong willed person

McKee.

My nan...

Was a wonderful woman and lived life to the full. As a teacher of home economics she sewed my wedding dress for me

McKee.

My nan...

Was one of the women of steel helping out during WW2 to make parts for Spitfire Engines. She was an amazing baker and loved knitting me jumpers as a child

McKee.

My nan...

Would tell me she was just resting her eyes when I was a bored child looking asleep!

McKee.

My nan...

Would arrive for Sunday dinner at about 11:30 and the first thing she always said was whose taking me home. Love you Nana.

McKee.

My nan...

Was a decorator for the village. Even worked down the pits helping with health and safety
