Changes to Pension Credit rules for 'mixed age couples' (pensioners with a partner under State Pension Age) mean that some couples with an age gap of five years or more could lose £35,000 by the time the younger partner reaches SPA.

Age UK has estimated that 31% of couples have an age gap of five years or greater, using data on the ages of partners in 10,941 co-resident opposite sex couples aged 16+ living across the UK, who were surveyed in wave 8 of Understanding Society, the UK Household Longitudinal Study in 2016-18. The difference between standard Universal Credit (£115 per week) and standard Pension Credit (£255.25 per week) for couples is £140.25 each week. If rates were to stay the same, over five years this difference would accumulate to £36,465.

220,000 older people in Wales report that they have felt lonely during later life.
100,000 people aged 65 and over in Wales speak to three or fewer people they know.
